BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1898.

A record of the strikes for 1887 is unished by Bradstreet s, which shows that $50,000 strikers lost in time 10, 000,000 days' work an average of twenty-seven days or one month each. At a low estimate the wages sacrified-amount to $13,500,000. The increase in wages gained by successful strikes will not amount to one fifth of that sum. If hot-headed labor leaders who precipitate strikes can demonstrate from these figures where the profit of striking occurs in, their mastery of sophistry will have to be admitted. To men who have been taught that twice two are only four these figures demonstrate the stupendous folly of the strike business, and nothing else. The real workingmen should standy these cold figures more and listen to the false reasoning of their demagogical leaders less if they want to keep the wolf from the door.

Mr. Raudall threw himself in the breach the other day, and by resorting to dilatory tactics, prevented the ap pointment of a day for the introduction bills for the erection of Governmen buildings. This was a patriotic ser Pennsylvania statesman, as there ap-pears to be a general sentiment throughout the country to secure such appro stions. If these raids upon the sury were not checked there would noon be no surplus to puzzle the mighty ntellects of our national legislators.

Responsive to the popular demand there appears to be a pretty general sentiment in the House in favor of authorizing the issue of about twenty million dollars in fractional currency. bills, as the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is pushing work on the $2 and $5 silver certificates, as the presen demand is greatly in excess of the sup ply, but it is believed that in a few days the stock will be sufficiently larg.

The Civil Service Commissionerhave been cited to appear before a House committee and to express their views on several bills that are now un ler consideration. Some changes are likely, for it is an open secret that the committee on civil service, more particularly the chairman, are opposed to the present law.

Rights of Pedestrians

UPON THE STREETS THE WALKER HAS THE PRIMARY RIGHT.

It is the popular but nevertheless erroneous belief of car and wagon drivers that they have the right of way at street crossings and that it is the duty of the pedestrians to get out of the way of all vehicles. This is a fallacy which Judge Finletter of Philadelphia recently exploded in a charge asked against the Traction Company for running into and injuring a man who was driving a wagon. In the course of his charge Judge Finletter made the following pertinent remark, which he said could be aken as a warning by all car drivers, who without slacking the speed of their cars,

"Upon the streets of the city the wayfarer has the primary right, and when he reaches a crossing before any kind of vehicle he has the right of way, and it is the duty of hose who are using vehicles to see that they do not interfere with that right or make its exercise dangerous. The right of way belongs to the vehicle which first reaches the crossing and all other vehicles must observe this right. A violation of this right is negligence. The ring-ing of a bell or any other notice does ot give the right to cross."

THE TRANSFIGURATION.

SIXTH LESSON OF THE INTERNA-TIONAL S. S. SERIES, FEB. 5, 1888.

Comments by Rev. William Newton, D. D. Text of the Lesson, Matt. avil, 1-13. Golden Text, Luke ix, 35-Memories

"two men." It was not an apparation. They were not spirits. They were men—just this and nothing less.

As to (2) Luke tells us of what they talked. It was "of his decease or departure, which he should accomplish at Jerusalem." Doubtless the death of Christ was the theme of the intensest wonder in the heavenly world. Angels and departed believers—not alike, indeed, or for the same reason, still as really—"desire to look into these things." And here the two men, representing the law and the prophets, appeared in glory to talk with their Lord about it. And the disciples heard them talk. V. 4. It must have been at this time—or while they were talking—that the disciples awoke. And what a vision burst upon them. Jesus in his glory. Moses and Ellas with the splendors of the heavenly world upon them. And the theme of their talk was their Lord's death upon the cross. Now on such a scene as this they opened their eyes, and such words as these met their ears. And Peter, unawed by both, broke out into this most extraordinary proposition. Surely no one but Peter could have done this. And no one but a man writing under the guidance of the spirit of truth would have recorded it.

V. 5. Two things invite attention in this verse, i. a.,

1. The cloud itself, and,

verse, i. e.,

1. The cloud itself, and,
2. The voice out of the cloud.
As to (1) it seems from Luke's account, that the cloud came upon them just as Moses and Elias were departing. It was not an ordinary cloud. Would the disciples in that case have "feared as they entered into the case have "feared as they entered into the cloud"—or as the cloud came upon them? Would it then have been called "a bright cloud"—or a cloud glorious with inward light?

And as to (2), Peter expressly settled this question—if indeed, there could have been a question about it. He says it was "the voice from the excellent glory"—the voice of God the Father, giving honor and glory to His Incarnate Son. It was the attestation of his sonship. And as such, as the Incarnate God, they were in all their future ministry to hear him. What he taught they were to affirm. And his word must point every duty; and settle every dispute.

And his word must point every duty; and settle every dispute.

V. 6-8. The vision draws to a close. Before that voice, which then, they understood not, the disciples "sore afraid" fell to the ground. The cloud passes, and Jesus—with every trace of his indwelling glory shut in—rises, comes and touches them, and bids them not to be afraid. not to be afraid.

not to be afraid.

V. 9. Is the reason of this charge to be found in the truth, that this vision is a fore-shadowing of the future of the church in glory? As such it could not be understood till Jesus was risen from the dead, and the spirit unfolded its meaning to them.

V. 10. The word "then," seems to give great point to this question of the disciples. It is as if they had said "why then—in that case, if the son of man is to rise from the dead—do the Scribes assert that Elias must first come? In that case why should he come? What is the use or purpose of his coming?

V. 11-13. And in this reply two truths appear, i. e.,

1. The coming of Elijah, and,
2. The mission of John in its relati

GENERAL LESSONS. 2ENERAL LESSONS.

1. The meaning of the transfiguration we cannot well mistake here. Was it not a revelation of the real nature and position of their Lord and of the coming glory of his church? And how it remained with them, and cheered and strengthened them in the hours of their darkest trials we very well know. It made them see and know under the Soirit's teachdarkest trials we very well know. It made them see and know under the Spirit's teach-ing, that the words they preached about Jesus were not "cunningly devised fables." It taught them the majesty and dignity of his person and office; the glory of his king-dom, and his coming again to set it up. Of all these, this transfiguration was an illustra-tion and proof—at once glorious and irresis-tible.
